Introduction

This directory has been compiled with a view to identifying and describing information resources in Scientific and Technical Libraries in Sri Lanka.

It has been observed that most of the valuable and specialised collections housed in various libraries, are confined to restricted number of users, and are not properly exploited by the Scientific Community at large due to unawareness of their existence.

This directory is intended for serving as an inventory of information services which would reflect available information resources and would reveal shortcomings and gaps in the holdings of libraries.

In the preparation of this publication we relied on information received by us in response to our questionnaire which was circulated among Scientific and Technical Institutions in Sri Lanka; we have included libraries which have wider scope and coverage such as University Libraries, National Museum Library, the British Council Library as they possess comprehensive collections of scientific publications.

Arrangement

Entries in the directory are arranged alphabetically by the name of the library. In most cases the name of the parent organization has been used to identify the library.

Where ever possible, following information have been included in respect of each library:

- (a) Name (b) Address (c) Year of establishment of the library
- (d) Staff: the names and designations of the professional staff, total staff, if more than one. (e) Subject coverage in Science and Technology arranged by UDC (f) Indexing methods: Classification Schemes and Cataloguing Codes adopted for organizing the stock (g) Strength of the collection as at 1977 (in most cases approximate figures have been given
- (h) Special collections pertaining to science and technology
- (g) Special services provided to non-members and other libraries (i) Publications of the library and the parent organization (an asterisk has been used to denote a publication of the parent organization) (j) equipment available for the use of the library (k) special features of the library.

Acknowledgement

We gratefully acknowledge the help received from the participating libraries in submitting entries and making possible the publication of this directory.

Every attempt was made to make this directory comprehensive and as accurate as possible. However work of this nature is not immune to error and omission. Therefore comments, corrections or additions are most welcome.
